It doesn't make the news much in our neck of the woods, but is going on for months: India blockading their Nepali borders. The new year sadly hasn't changed a thing and the consequences are getting graver by the day. Nepal has always been one of the poorest countries in the world, long before the earthquakes of 2015 struck hard and unrelenting. Since then, the population needed even more help and support to get back on their feet. And what does neighbor India do? They blockade the borders. All because political madness following the new Nepali constitution. With a neighbor like that, you don't need enemies...

May 2016 be a better one for Nepal and specially for its people!

GOOD NEWS AT THE START OF THE NEW YEAR

Dream don't alway stay dreams. At least not for Asha and Devendra, who have been and integral part of 4SmilingFaces from the start.

Just now they started the Second Home Child Outreach Program from there Homestay. Aim is to educate and support at risk children in their community. All this thanks to a large donation by fellow repeat volunteer Kelly Davio from Canada. Well done Kelly, so proud of you!

A little support from us will go such a long way for these well deserving kids. 4SmilingFaces is only to happy to help anyway it can!

PRESS RELEASE

EU and UNICEF help to restore education in post-earthquake Nepal with launch of a 4 million Euro project

KATHMANDU, 2 February 2016 - The European Union (EU) and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) have entered into a partnership to help restore education for one million children affected by the devastating earthquakes that struck Nepal last year. The project worth 4 million Euro will include construction of 650 transitional learning centres, provision of essential learning materials in all newly established centres as well as psychosocial counseling training to teachers in nine earthquake affected districts of Gorkha, Kavrepalanchowk, Makwanpur, Nuwakot, Okhaldhunga, Ramechhap, Rasuwa, Sindhuli and Sindhupalchowk in collaboration with the Department of Education and the concerned district administrations and NGOs.

"Over the years, Nepal has made significant educational gains, including the nearly 100 per cent primary enrolment rate," said H.E. Renate Teerink, Ambassador, European Union Delegation to Nepal. "These gains are at a risk today, especially with massive damages to schools and classrooms during the Nepal earthquakes."

A structural assessment of all schools in the 14 most affected districts found that over 34,500 classrooms were damaged or destroyed beyond use, affecting the education of one million children.

"Collective efforts are needed so that all kids have decent learning opportunities to avoid negative long term effects of the 2015 disaster. The EU- UNICEF partnership seeks to help restore the education of these children by assuring safe learning environments and emotional support for them," said Ms. Teerink.

The new centres will include corrugated galvanized iron sheets for the roof, improved walls, gender-friendly latrines, hand-washing facilities and provision for drinking water. The semi-permanent structures are expected to last for at least the next two years, until more permanent structures for schools can be built.

The learning environment of the earthquake-affected children will be further enhanced with provision for early childhood development and educational materials in all the newly established centres. In addition, 1,300 teachers will be trained on providing effective psychosocial counseling to the students.

"In the last nine months, UNICEF has been working very closely with the Government and partners to minimize the disruption to schooling in the earthquake affected districts by helping to resume classes as soon as possible in schools and temporary learning centres," said Tomoo Hozumi, UNICEF Representative to Nepal. "We look forward to the new partnership among the Government of Nepal, EU and UNICEF to further enable us to support the efforts to build back better the education system."

I have been coming to Nepal for 8 years now and I am always amazed by the Nepali people, specially the children. They are so strong, resilient so positive, even when they face things they shouldn't have to. I am in awe! By supporting them we give Nepal a chance to help itself getting back on top!

Remarkable day today. 4SmilingFaces is having its 7th birthday. Hurray. Very proud. Party time!

I could leave it at that, of course. But things change and this time it seems fitting to make a bigger statement on the occasion of this jubilee. Maybe it is because I saw a fragment of the recent Oscar ceremony, but I feel the need to thank some people without whom I could never have done what I did with 4SmilingFaces so far.

Because what it comes down to is that I never ever in a million years thought I would do something remotely like 4SmilingFaces. I it totally just happened to me and somehow grew in to the life changing adventure it has grown in to.

Even though 4SmilingFaces is my personal adventure of a lifetime, I could not do it all alone. I hope I tell everyone involved often enough how grateful I am for their support, if not let me try to make up for that omission with this message.

The kids and the Homes they live in

You are what this is all about. You are my very favourite people in the world. Until I met you all I never realized that an adult could learn so much from children or that I could have so much fun with so many kids. Love you always.

Asha & Devendra, Sumedha, Sushant, Sweetie, Sabina and Gita

Thank you for always welcoming me in your house, your life and your family. There is no better place in Nepal than your house. I would choose staying with you always over whatever 5 star resort was offered to me. Your input for 4SmilingFaces was, is and always will be invaluable. May it continue for ever! I am such a lucky person to consider you members of my-very-best-friends-club.

Diederik and Gerdo

For being the best, most constructieve and helpfull board members I could ever wish for. And for being dear and close friends too.

Fellow volunteers, specially the mini-UN

You always give an extra shine to my time in Nepal.

Daniel, Kelly, Christina, Thierry and Paulo: Thank you for your heart and brainpower always, but especially after the earthquakes. Without your support I would have been completely overwhelmed.

Family, co-workers and other supporters

From day one you all have donated to my foundation making it all possible. I find that amazing. Thank you for trusting me doing the right thing.

Peter, Steven and André

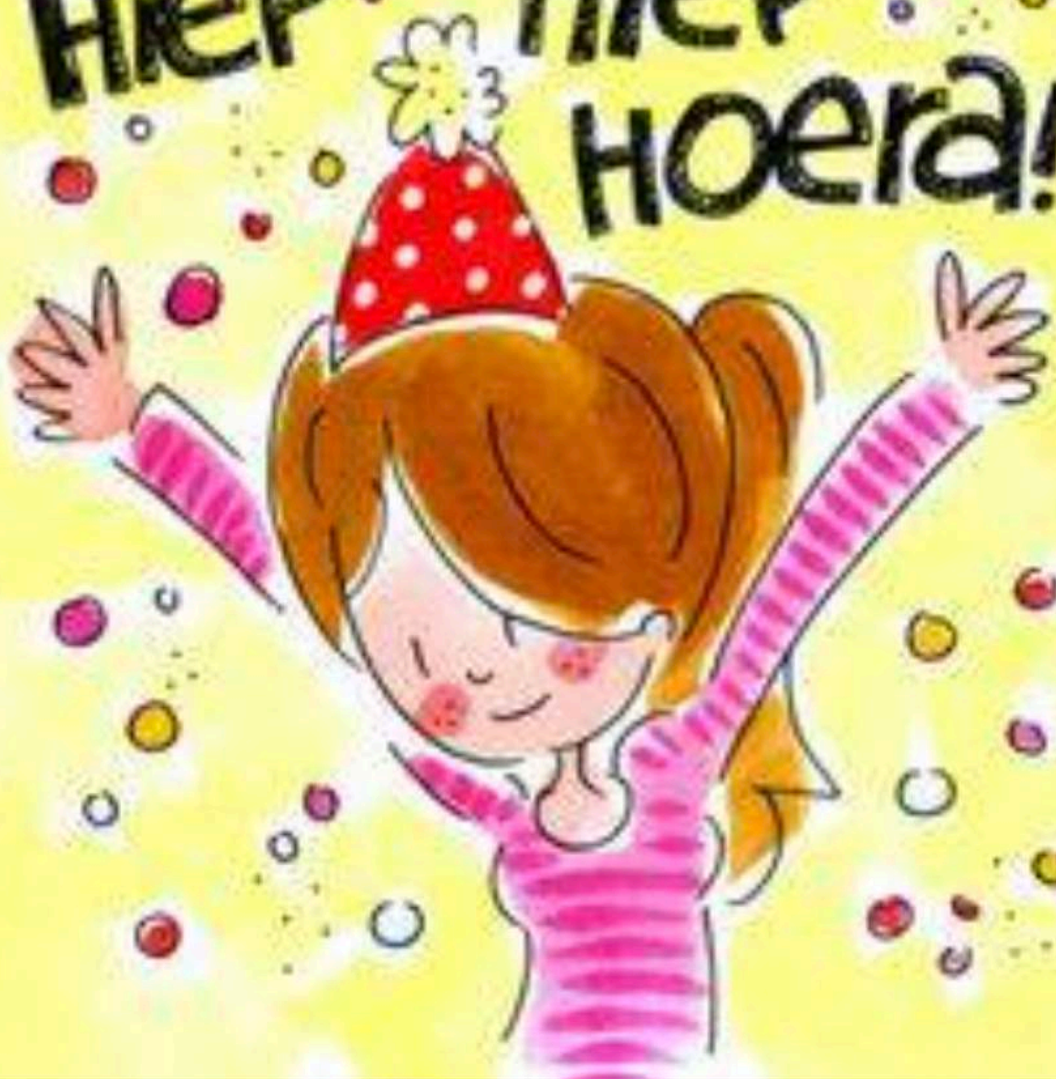

Not many people that promise to help with 4SmilingFaces actually do, just because other things get in the way. I am one lucky girl that three amazing men are the exception to that rule.

Erik

For always helping me with everything internet and tech-things. Amazing.

And to all those people whom I forgot to mention here. THANK YOU!!!

Today is exactly 1 year since the big bang in Nepal: around 9000 death, more than half a million houses destroyed and so many (economic) challenges. And after all that, Mother Earth still hasn't gone back to sleep. May she calm down soon, Nepal has had enough! Leave them be please....they deserve that.

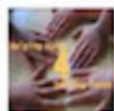

Vandaag is het precies 1 jaar sinds de grote klap in Nepal: circa 9000 doden, meer dan een half miljoen verwoeste huizen en zoveel (economische) uitdagingen. En na dat alles is Moeder Aarde nog steeds niet gaan slapen. Moge ze snel rustig worden, Nepal heeft er genoeg van. Laat haar met rust...dat heeft ze wel verdiend.

Een nieuwe stap: 4SmilingFaces heeft nu ook een comité van aanbeveling. Normaalgesproken vragen goede doelen bekende mensen voor die erefunctie, maar 4SmilingFaces doet het anders. We hebben gekozen voor mensen met hart voor de zaak, die niet alleen zeggen dat ze steunen en helpen, maar dat ook daadwerkelijk doen. Daar worden wij blij van. Met dank aan Peter Heres, André de Hamer en Steven Groeneveld.

A new step: 4SmilingFaces now has a committee of recommendation. Normally charities ask famous people for this honorary title, but 4SmilingFaces does things differently. We choose people who have heart for our work, who not only say they want to help and give support, but actually practice what they preach. That makes us happy. Big thank you to Peter Heres, André de Hamer and Steven Groeneveld.

It is so good to see the DRC exerciseroom we build in 2014 (and restored after the earthquakes in 2015) in full use. This is exactly why we love this project: to help the kids reach their full potential.

Het is zo goed om de DRC oefenruimte die we in 2014 hebben gebouwd (en in 2015 hebben herstelt na de aardbevingen) volop in gebruik te zien. Dat is precies waarom we dit zo gaaf project vinden: om de kinderen te helpen volledig tot ontwikkeling te komen.

Hier worden wij zo droevig van...er is nog veel werk te doen!

This article states that 1 in 4 children worldwide live in conflict- or disaster stricken countries. This makes us so sad...there is still a lot of work to be done!

'Kwart van kinderen wereldwijd leeft in conflict- of rampland'

Een kwart van de kinderen ter wereld leeft in landen die worden getroffen door natuurrampen en conflicten. Ongeveer 535 miljoen hebben kinderen onvoldoende...
